Correctly quoting Workshop

You are in the process of writing your thesis? You are facing problems in correctly quoting scientific sources that you want to cite in your project/paper? In this case, ISGS can offer concrete help!

In order to address your concerns regarding academic integrity, ISGS is setting up a professional Coaching on how to avoid plagiarism. By treating your own texts, we will focus on plagiarism as a severe scientific misconduct and learn how to prevent it. Furthermore, the workshop will cover the topic of referencing and finding and selecting relevant resources. Participants will have time for individual questions and will receive honest feedback of a professional trainer.

During the Workshop the participants will learn:

- about the extent of and reasons for plagiarism
- more about the different forms of plagiarism
- how to find and choose effective sources
- how to quote, paraphrase, summarize and cite sources correctly

About your Trainer: Dr. Lydia Prexl

- Dr. Lydia Prexl earned her PhD in Anglistics at the University of Mannheim and completed a further training in the field of journalism
- Since 2013, she has been working as professional writing trainer at the Library & Dept. of Economics at the University of Mannheim
- Furthermore, Dr. Lydia Prexl is free editor and author
- She has several publications, such as: “How to work with digital sources. Correctly quoting from data bases, e-books, youtube etc.”
- More information can be found at her website http://lydia.prexl.de

Date: Wednesday, August 31, 2016, 13:15 - 19:00h
Place: Building 36, 265
Language: English & German
Participants: Graduate Students, PhD candidates, etc.
Registration: Registration only in person (until August 29) at ISGS Bld.47/R. 616 (First come first served)
Participation Fee: 2 EUR (to be paid at ISGS Bld.47/R. 616)